Here we discuss the two types of families. There are really only two ways to run a family. There are no “shades of grey” in this matter. Families are run in either one or the other methods.

Throughout all of human history, and all over the world (independent of culture), families fall into only two distinct categories. These categories are simple but fundamental.

- Ordered, structured family (traditional)
- Unordered, and unstructured family (progressive)

This information is not available anywhere else! As far as I know, this is the only place where you will find this information in English, and devoid of any religious dogma.

But first...

Let's cover why this information is not easily available.

Technical Confusion

The fundamental two types listed above describe how the families operate.

But, this is of no concern to governments. They want methods to make it easy to classify families to tax them, to “improve their lives”, or to provide substantive benefits to.

They have devised other methods.

These other ways are complex and serve no purpose other than to confuse. In these other arrangements, you have families classified by the number and types of children, and the marriage states of the primary caregivers, as well as the gender variations, present in the families. It is silly. Really.

All are nonsensical as far as the operation of a family goes.

It is like arguing over the benefits of the percentage of chocolate in brownies.

They are nonsensical simply because the classifications have no practicality. At least from the point of view of the people within the families. This type and kind of classification has limited utility.

They are useful by government agencies in the distribution of benefits. They are useful in the creations of studies and academic papers. However, in terms of the lifestyle and benefits of the families themselves, this classification has no benefit.

You can scour the internet looking in a vague hope towards understanding the fundamental nature of human families. You can search and search. But you won't ever find out why human families form relationships and parental units. Nor will you discover the forms that they take and why. Instead, you will find all sorts of trivialities. Just useless information. Useless.

Such as this...

Types of Family

❑ Traditional Family Types:

- Married Couple:
 - ❑ Simplest type of family consisting of husband and wife
- Nuclear Family:
 - ❑ Consist of Husband Wife and at least one child
- Extended Family:
 - ❑ Consist of a nuclear family with at least one grand parent
- Joint Family:
 - ❑ Blood relatives and their spouses with kids staying together

❑ New Modes of Family

- Blended Family:
 - ❑ A family in which either or both partner were previously married
- Single Parent Family:
 - ❑ A family in which only one of the parent is present
- Unmarried Family:
 - ❑ Parents, unmarried, but living together
- Communal Family:
 - ❑ A group of families living together and sharing responsibility

Contemporaneous academic familial classification schemes.

Is your life improved by knowing these various classifications? If so, please tell me how.

It's sort of like classifying dogs.

- Dogs are big, or small.
- Dogs have hair or not.
- Dogs have different colored patterned fur, or not.
- Dogs can bark, or not.

In the case of human families and their familial arrangements, you will come across terms of “nuclear family”, and “extended family” and “foster family”, etc. These different titles only serve government agencies for the distribution of welfare benefits, they do not address familial operation.

For in familial operation, all families can be classified in but one of two distinctly different types.

The Two Classifications

The two types of classifications of what a family is are very straight forward.

Humans form one of two types of families. There are no “shades of grey” in this matter. They are either [1] traditional, conservative families or [2] progressive, liberal families.

While there are variations in both types of families given cultural, social, and ethnic norms, for the most part there are two, and ONLY two types of families.

Here we discuss the two types.

A Changing Ideal – Progressive

Let’s start with the prevalent type in America today. This is the progressive liberal family structure.

It was not always this way. To understand why it is this way today, you need to know a little about American history.

This is a recent familial structure.

Historically, Americans have overwhelmingly had a Conservative Traditional familial structure for the last two hundred years. However, all this started to change around the first decade of 1900. The major driver for this change was the destruction of the 4th amendment when the 16th amendment was passed, and the imposition of the income tax burden and the Federal Reserve.

THE JANITOR AND THE MILLIONAIRE

Taxes, in every nation on the planet, always devolves to taxing the poor while providing benefit to the wealthy. This is a historical fact. No wishful thinking can change that reality.

This legislation eroded the strength of a traditional conservative family unit. Both parents had to work to pay the tax burden. For once it became acceptable to tax and regulate, everything became taxed and regulated.

Fees and charges started to pop up everywhere, and it became no longer viable to maintain a traditional conservative family in the United States. This is because in a traditional conservative family, one person works outside the home. Not two.

Once it became acceptable to tax, an avalanche of taxation and regulation fell upon the American citizenry.

Whether intentional or as a consequence of the actions from Washington DC, American families started to restructure the family. They restructured the family around the constantly evolving financial realities of the United States.

It wasn't only federal taxes. It was ever increasing state taxes; ever increasing regulation and fees. All of which were making things more expensive. Not to mention the absolutely incompetent managing of the American dollar by the corrupt Federal Reserve.

How can you deny my narrative...

The value of the United States dollar has plummeted in value ever since the Federal Reserve managed it. This is a historical fact. The value of the US dollar today is less than one penny compared to what it was when the Federal Reserve was created.

As the Federal Reserve managed the money, inflation skyrocketed. the value of the dollar decreased, and it became absolutely necessary for both parents to work.

America has been decaying rapidly since the 1950s with almost every aspect of society failing—and things are only about to get even worse. While this is a showcase of how good things can be lost so easily, it is also a demonstration of what can be possible under a patriarchal order with proper social values.

While things may seem impossible to change at the moment, remember that history has always been full of unanticipated events that quickly turned things around to transform the society at large.

Think of how much China has recovered (and now thriving) since their devastating Communist past from just a few decades ago.

-Return of Kings

As the parents labored outside of the home, no one was there in the home. There was no one establishing roles, rules or standards for the children to learn and abide by.

The absolute “killing blow” to traditional family life in America came about in the 1970’s when the SJW feminist movement became popularized and promoted in the mainstream media. A collapse of the traditional family came shortly afterwards.

A graph of the divorce rate in America over time. The highlighted area is when the SJW feminist “Woman’s Rights” movement was active in the 1970's.

This is a chart of the divorce rate in the United States over time. You can clearly see that the SJW feminist movement during the 1970’s played a major role in the divorce rate in America and the reduction on parental education for the children.

Without parents around to teach the children, the children were forced to learn on their own.

Instead, the Children learned, not from their parents, but rather from what was at hand and available to them. Often this was other children and the television and movies.

- Television portrayed what life was.
- Other children portrayed how to live life.
- School teachers instructed how to behave.

As a result it became normal (in the United States) to have families with no structure. And thus, we have the situation today in most homes in the United States...

The Progressive Liberal Family Structure

A “Progressive Liberal” family unit is one without structure.

We pretty much never had sit-down family meals, and if we did it was from a restaurant, we ate in silence, and then we'd just wander off from the table one by one to watch TV or go on the computer or something. It's not that we hate each other or anything, it's just pretty much the way it's always been.

- PolkaDotsOnThursday

All or no family members might work. There are no rules, or if there are rules, they are temporary and subject to change. In a progressive liberal family, the structure, organization, and behavior of the family are all constantly changing.

In a progressive liberal family, there is no structure. They may or may not be male and female member that take on parental roles. In this case above, there isn't a father figure or earner. The family exists off the government dole. The children learn that earning money is not necessary to have such a family, as all they need to do is procreate and ask for money from the government.

This has been the primary and dominant structure in the United States since the SJW feminist movement of the 1960s.

In a progressive liberal family, typically both the male and the female might work or not. (Though, there might be not any differences in gender, though.) There will not be any roles, gender or rules.

The earnings of each worker are not shared. It is kept by the individual. Though there is often some kind of sharing arrangement for the payment of rent, and how to take care of the children. Which, at the whim of the individual members, might change without notice.

The feminist movement in the 1970s in the United States started off innocently enough. They just wanted “equality” and “fairness”. However, their true desires took decades to place a stranglehold on American society. They wanted a total abolition of roles. And in the process, a complete destruction of any kind of stable society.

Often the individual members of a progressive liberal household will have a very positive view of their opinions and their “open mindedness”. They desire to prove to others that their familial organization and their roles within it are superior to others. Often believing in their own superiority.

What feminists think the gender war is

What it really is Often the individual roles within a family are promoted as superior to traditional roles. The participants look upon themselves as heroes or heroines fighting tradition.

The primary characteristics of a progressive liberal family is one of independence. If you need your clothes washed, you wash them yourself. Yes, you can add the clothing of others to your load, if room permits, but the primary characteristic is one of selfish independence.

This trickles down into everything.

There are no roles or responsibilities, at least not formal ones. If the room is messy, you clean it when needed. If a chore needs to be taken care of, you deal with it only when necessary. If bills need to be paid, they are rarely shared, but rather the primary user of that monetary allotment is responsible for the billing.

When there are no rules and no structure, people become confused and try to do unusual things to stand out from the crowd. This can manifest into all kinds of anti-social behaviors. In traditional conservative societies, people like this are segregated from society and isolated so that their mental illness will not affect those around them.

Clothing is often an afterthought. People wear the same clothes outside as they do inside. The same goes for shoes. Often underwear is infrequently washed, and shoes are rarely shined or repaired.

Children are not cared for in any meaningful way. That role is farmed out. Whether it is via a day-care, a nanny, or a school, the parents rarely take responsibility for their children. They allow others and permit others to teach and direct their children. The role of parenting is often outsourced.

Meals are often purchased through restaurants or take out. Rarely they are prepared at home. If they are, then it is unusual for them to be anything other than “my food for me”. Family meals are not shared activities. Most progressive liberal families have a diet that relies heavily on fast-food, snacks and easy to make home preparations.

When there are no limits, and no rules you can live the way that you decide. This can often be unhealthy. Without any kind of discipline by a strong fatherly figure, the children can grow into adults that have no understanding of good or the dangers of bad behaviors.

Meals can be eaten anywhere, and often are. While there might be a “dining room”, most meals are eaten alone in front of a television set, or a computer. They can be eaten in the living room, or bed room, or standing up in the kitchen.

"The so-called "sexual revolution" intentionally destroyed all of the social constructs that had been put together over thousands of years of human history."

The truth about the progressive family and the progressive woman, as viewed by a traditional conservative.

Gender in the U.S.

- Housewife

A traditional gender role found in the United States that views males as being responsible for the economic support and protection of the family. Housewife. A traditional gender role found in the United States that views females as responsible for child-rearing and domestic activities.

In a traditional, and conservative family there is a structure. There are roles. There are rules of behavior. This might vary somewhat, in minor differences, from one society to another, but the basic organizational structure stays the same.

- The father supports the family monetarily.
- The mother supports the family domestically.

A traditional gender role found in the United States that views males as being responsible for the economic support and protection of the family. Housewife. A traditional gender role found in the United States that views females as responsible for child-rearing and domestic activities.

This is the basic setup. The father might be a construction worker, or a college professor. He might be rich or poor. He might be religious or agnostic, but the family unit is timeless.

Here is an Amish family that maintains a traditional family...

The Amish family follows the traditional conservative familial structure. There is a father that works and provides for the family, and a mother that tends to the domestic matters and their children.

In a traditional family unit, the father or male head of the household works and labors. His earnings, or the result of his efforts, are given to his wife & family. This includes the vast bulk of his earnings. This includes his time, his relationships, and all of his attention.

Make no mistake about this. All of his money goes to his family.

This financial arrangement where the finances are controlled by the wife is time tested. The wife, who is in control of the finances, budgets for the well being of the man, and the children. She plans. She saves and she supports the man in what ever he needs to be able to make more money.

God forbid I go into someplace like Harbor Freight with a big wad of cash.

Yeah, give me a sec and I'll back right up to the front door to making loading all this crap I don't need into the back of my rig easier.

This is why the Wifely Unit takes care of the money around here. I'm horrible about that shit . That is why our bills get paid on time and why I now actually have a killer credit score.

-Busted Knuckles

The wife, thusly, takes the money and maintains the family with it. She provides the food, cares for the children, makes sure the household is maintained, and the family standing with the rest of the community.

She is in charge of how the children grow and develop. As a result, a mother in a conservative family will tend to be less protective of her children. Instead, wanting them to have the scrapes and cuts early on to learn from the experience.

A progressive mother, one who farms out the parenting responsibilities, will try to coddle the child and protect them at the expense of teaching them. Which is why in the United States today, you have overly coddled youth.

Allow your Children to Play and Grow (Part 1)

I am horrified, just horrified, that parents do not allow their children to play, roam and explore on their own. It has created a society of pampered fearful children. Here I discuss this in terms of what I know. This is very non-PC and might offend the more liberal readers out there.

Allow your Children to Play and Grow (Part 2)

This is the second part of my rant about permitting children to play, explore and have fun. Everyone, the odds that some stranger will abduct your child is very small. Most people who do this are family friends and neighbors. Stop being so fearful. It harms the development of your child.

The conservative traditional mother is responsible for the growth and development of the child. It is not farmed out to others.

The mother is responsible for the care, well-being and the education of the children. While this will include the schooling, the mother will make sure that the child excels in school compared to the child's peers.

Traditionally, the Seneca Nation's economy was based on hunting and gathering activities, fishing and the cultivation of corn, beans, and squash. These vegetables were the staple of the Haudenosaunee diet and were called "the three sisters".

Seneca women generally grew and harvested varieties of the three sisters, as well as gathered medicinal plants, roots, berries, nuts, and fruit.

Seneca women held sole ownership of all the land and the homes, thus the women also tended to any domesticated animals such as dogs and turkeys.

Women were in charge of the kinship groups called clans. The woman in charge of a clan was called the "clan mother". Despite the prominent position of women in Iroquois society, their influence on the diplomacy of the nation was limited.

If the "clan mothers" did not agree with any major decisions made by the chiefs, they could eventually depose them.

Seneca men were generally in charge of locating and developing the town sites, including clearing the forest for the production of fields. Seneca men also spent a great deal of time hunting and fishing. This activity took them away from the towns or villages to well-known and productive hunting and fishing grounds for extended amounts of time. These hunting and fishing locations were altered and well maintained and not simply left to grow as "wild" lands.

-Great Dreams discussing the role of women in a traditional conservative Seneca society.

Same-sex conservative family

A traditional conservative family can ALSO be one with same-sex parenting roles.

In same-sex parenting schemes, a traditional conservative family would have one parent taking on the role as the "father" and the "breadwinner", while the other partner takes on the role of the "mother" and takes on the domestic chores.

It is not gender specific.

It really isn't. The conservative traditional lifestyle is actually same-sex friendly. It is role dependent. Not gender dependent.

In same-sex parenting schemes, a traditional conservative family would have one parent taking on the role as the "father" and the "breadwinner", while the other partner takes on the role of the "mother" and takes on the domestic chores.

The primary characteristics of a traditional conservative family is one of rules and roles. The father earns the money. The mother takes care of the house, the domestic affairs and the children.

The father earns the money that the household lives off of. In traditional families, he gives 100% of his income to his family. This often is handed to the wife who is in charge of the budget.

Of course, the father will take on male responsibilities as needed. This often includes discipline, motivation, and the various tasks required to teach a boy how to be a man. Not to mention being a role model for his daughters; to teach them what characteristics to look for, and which ones to avoid, in a boy.

Families need both a nurturing female mother figure as well as a strong male fatherly figure in their lives. Both roles are important. The progressive liberal narrative is one where this dichotomy is portrayed as evil, such as in the Gillette razor commercial. But this is a terrible distortion of reality.

Men need to be strong and courageous.

Children need both parents to grow up in a balanced way. Perhaps one of the best movies to portray this need is the 1990's movie "Boyz in the Hood".

The mother will be responsible for good nutritious meals.

That includes household budgeting, selection of what the family eats, and the preparation and presentation of the food. In many conservative traditional households there is a formal sit-down meal where everyone shares and enjoys the time together.

In fact, I will go out on a limb here and state that this is one of the defining criteria used to determine the type of family that is present in a household.

The Importance of a Family Meal Together

There is nothing more important and satisfying than spending time together with friends and family and eating a meal together. It is a time of friendship, familial bonding and relaxation. Here we discuss what I have learned from my childhood and how I apply it today in my life.

Our dinner hour continued my Italian family's practice of eating together every night - plus big gatherings on Sunday afternoons. For our own dinner hour, the time between 6 and 7 p.m. was inviolable - as in "sacrosanct" - and all my kids' friends knew about it. No phone calls, but the friends had a standing invitation to join us. Besides the meal, the table was set for our humanity; we talked, laughed, fought, yelled and even cried. So indelible was the dinner hour that Carla wrote about it for a college admission essay.

Leah, a close childhood friend, chimed in: "My mom was super militant about the family dinner and she was an amazing cook who had the time to plan lovely dinners so it always worked out. I loved it and remembered it fondly with the goal in mind to replicate.

However my babysitter leaves at 5 p.m., and I am a decent cook who basically has an hour and change to whip something together for the family. I am with Jenna, in that my goal is try to do proper family dinner three to four times a week, and the rest of the time we wing it. If Mike is on the road like this week, I cook for the kids but eat my dinner standing at the kitchen counter."

-SF Gate

The wife will have end-of-day clothing laid out for the man of the house, and for the children to wear when they arrive home. Shoes will rarely be worn inside, instead slippers or shower-shoes will be worn instead.

The father has an important role in the growth of the children. Both the boys and the girls benefit from his guidance and his leadership and direction. He teaches discipline and control. When you come across a child who ill-behaves in school and society, seemingly devoid of discipline, then you know that he has no (or a very weak) father figure in his life.

The wife will be responsible for holidays and family traditions. This will include decorations and festivities whatever they might be.

The wife is in charge of the diets for the family members. She is responsible for the food, selection, and preparation. She will make sure that the family gets nutritious and delicious meals. She will often have meals of fish, chicken and salads as opposed to fast food and pizza meals.

The family members would eat roasts, pork chops, have mashed potatoes and cabbage as sides along with peas and other fresh vegetables that the woman would prepare. Since everyone is eating healthy, it would be highly unusual for the children or any of the family members to get fat, let alone obese.

In a traditional household, the wife would be responsible for what the family members would eat. It is her duty to make sure that the family is healthy. Traditional conservative families do not have the weight problems that the rest of America experience.

Because of the importance placed upon the family unit; the food, the structure, the roles and the lifestyle, will often be healthier than in a progressive liberal lifestyle. While there might be standards in longevity, the quality of life and general health of people in a conservative traditional household far exceeds that of someone from a progressive liberal household.

This is a series of screen shots of newscaster Yang Dan in China. She, like most Chinese, lives a traditional conservative lifestyle. It is one of family, strong family and friend relationships, a lack of stress and an avoidance of disruptive escapist behaviors. It seems like she doesn't age. That is simply because she has a supportive conservative, traditional family. She has friends and a life that includes good nutritious food and healthy social life.

In traditional conservative families, “outside meals” held in restaurants are a special event. And when that event happens, the restaurants are selected carefully with the idea of ceremony. It is not an afterthought. Though, fast food might be eaten from time to time, it is not considered to be “a meal”.

In fact, junk food is rarely tolerated outside of special occasions and carefully metered by the woman of the house. For instance, if potato chips are served, it would be with a healthy dip. If hamburgers are cooked it will be part of a BBQ get-together. If pizza is served, there will be a salad, and fruit with it.

- Orange juice with water instead of soda pop.
- Grapes and peanuts on the table instead of candy.
- Leftovers in the fridge for easy quick snacks.
- Banning of certain unhealthy foods.
- Metered access to heavy sugar-rich foods.

In a traditional household, the woman would prepare the lunches for the family where possible. If the mother decides that the school lunches are adequate, she may opt to allow the children to eat outside the family home. But, the meals would need to pass her muster first.

She would also be in charge of what the man of the house eats.

The Woman is in charge...

She is in charge of what he eats, what he wears, how he wears it, and his behavior in public. The man, with full trust of his wife, would follow her instructions and direction as he knows that she has every faith in his ability to concentrate on making money without the other distractions that could tear away from his attention.

It is easier on the man this way.

His stress level goes way down when he knows that his home is his refuge and everything is taken care of. He can concentrate on the business tasks at hand; making money for his family.

"After three years of happy marriage, and getting stressed out by her job in a busy payroll department, she decided in 2018 to turn back time – and live like a 1950s housewife.

That's when Holte, 30, transformed her Hillsboro, Oregon, home into a suburban shrine to the pre-ERA era, busying herself cleaning, making dresses using vintage patterns – and getting dinner on the table by the time her husband, Lars, 28, gets home from his job as an engineering manager.

"I feel like I'm living how I always wanted to. It's my dream life and my husband shares my vision," she says as a vinyl Doris Day soundtrack plays in the background. "It is a lot of work. I do tons of dishes, laundry and ironing, but I love it and it's helping to take care of my husband and that makes me really happy."

- The woman quits her job to spoil her husband like a 1950s housewife

This is how a traditional conservative household works. No, it is not like the horrible image from Hollywood like what is portrayed in "The Handmaids Tale". It is instead a shared responsibilities that leverages the strengths of each partner equally.

Often, a woman will choose a career over family. This means, out of necessity, that she will have a progressive liberal family structure. This is how it works.

All of this seems so old fashioned to us Americans, but that is only because we have been living in a progressive liberal society for at least five decades if not longer. (Sorry to say, and I know many of the conservative readership do not want to hear this.)

The truth is that this is the way that families run their affairs in traditional conservative societies. Such as China. Such as Poland. Such as Zambia. Such as Russia. Such as Bulgaria.

The traditional conservative family in Zambia Africa. This is the primary family unit.

Comparisons

There are various memes that you can find on the internet that makes comparisons between the type types of families. They are often make between the ways it manifest individually. Here, the message is stark and harsh.

Internet meme comparing the woman's role in a progressive liberal household, compared to that of a traditional conservative household. The comparisons are stark.

The comparisons between the two different types of families are very stark and obvious. Here is a very "quick and dirty" summary of just some of the characteristics that can be used to compare the two different types of families.

Comparative Table

Attribute	Progressive	Conservative
Meals	Fast Food/Snacks	Planned & Healthy
Clothing	As needed	Cleaned & pressed
Family Roles	None	Defined
Household	Place to sleep	Refuge
Family Rules	None	Defined & Strict
Family Support	None	Complete
Multi-generational	Rare	Common
Budget	None	Maintained
Children	Farmed out	Supervised

It is interesting to note that most of the wealthiest families in the United States maintain a traditional conservative family household. This includes those that (for various political reasons) strongly support a progressive liberal household lifestyle for the vast bulk of Americans. While they themselves maintain a conservative traditional household behind closed doors.

Some things that a Progressive Liberal family cannot do

Once a family falls into the progressive liberal “trap”, they will have a difficult time enforcing any type of traditional conservative family rules. It’s simple really. When people live a life without rules, they resent any rules when they are put in place. It’s human nature.

Thus, here are some things that progressive liberal families have to struggle with. Traditional conservative families won’t experience these problems.

The things that progressive liberal families have trouble with include...

- Formal dinners at dinner time. Most progressive liberal families have a very difficult time with this. They find it difficult to set aside time and have difficulty in getting everyone to recognize the importance of communal dinners. When they do manage to set time aside, it is often short, and the experience becomes a mere formality. It is never a daily event.
- Chores and roles. Progressive liberal families are disgusted by roles and greatly resent taking on any kind of responsibility. they have a very negative view of any kind of male or female role and avoid it where at all possible. As a result, the household tends to become cluttered, messy, dirty, and disheveled.
- Saving Money. Most progressive liberal families have an understanding that what a person earns is theirs to do with they wish. Thus it is very difficult for them to save money. Especially saving money for family purposes.
- Discipline. When children are raised in a progressive Liberal household; one where there are no rules, the children become unruly and directionless. They often develop emotional and behavioral issues. This becomes a burden to the rest of the family.

Romantic Dreams

As a child, we naturally yearn for the conservative traditional lifestyle and way of life. Women yearn to have a child and look for a man “who will be theirs and theirs alone. A man who gives them everything they have and more”. This is a traditional conservative lifestyle.

In a traditional conservative man, he yearns for (what we men refer to) as “the one”. The one woman who would understand him. The one woman who he can say anything to, and be totally accepted for who he is. A woman who would never say anything bad about him, not to his face, and most certainly not behind his back. He yearns for a woman who would “have his back”, and he would give her his everything.

He would give her his love, and no one else would get it. He would give her all his money. All of it. Every cent, and allow her to invest it, budget it, and utilize it. She would be the one.

Men desire a faithful wife, and a strong family. He wants to do his best at work, and then when he comes home, he desires a place to call his own.

In a world where everyone from his boss to the rules and regulations at HR, to the government, has something to say about him and how he lives his life. Where they say how he can dress, cut his hair, trim his beard, and park his car. Where they can tell him what to do with his time, and yell at him and punish him for things beyond his control. He needs to know that “his home is his castle”. A place, a refuge, where he is the king and treated as such.

The traditional conservative lifestyle and family provides this.

Elements of a Conservative Traditional Home

You might find the following characteristics within a traditional conservative household...

- “His” chair.
- “Her” bathroom.
- House shoes beside the front door.
- A pantry that is full. (A consequence of budgeting.)
- Well behaved, and respectful, children.
- Hours where the kitchen is “closed” from use.
- Formal sit-down meals.

China

I like to use China as the benchmark in this regard. But other conservative nations are the same such as Poland.

Women's role / Man's role – There is a clear line in what is expected of both sides. However, where some feminist may find it offensive, I love it! Sure no problem I can clear the dishes off the table and clean and put them away, but you can go outside and pick up the dog poo, mow the lawn, and vacuum the stairs.

-One Month in Poland

There are social services in Poland. However, there is nothing like the need as in the Americas. Think of the Amish.

The adults take care of the young and the young take care of the old. In Poland families stay together, no matter what.

They help even more distant relatives. Women do not divorce their men and take care of them and so there are no broken families. Of course there are social problems but because of the stronger family structure nothing like you find in the West. People take care of each other.

-Why living in Poland is like living in Hollywood

There are some very good reasons for using Poland as an example. Take note. They are [1] a world power, they are [2] traditional and [3] have moved away from socialist communist progressive liberal behaviors in the late 1970s and [4] fully embraced traditional (Chinese) conservative lifestyles.

Please kindly note that this post has multiple embedded videos. It is important to view them. If they fail to load, all you need to do is to reload your browser.

China is a very traditional and conservative nation.

The family units are all traditional and conservative, and they safeguard and maintain this role with a degree of intensity that is surprising. One of the most surprising aspects of this role is the acceptance of historical and period costumes and roles.

The Chinese love the role play and you can often see them in public taking on the traditional conservative role for all to see and record. It's kind of amazing to me, and so I am presenting it here. Yes, most Chinese wear conventional clothing and work clothing. However, there is a serious love for Chinese history and the Chinese culture that transcends my ability to vociferate.

The Chinese LOVE their history. They love their nation. They love their lifestyle.

Here are some examples...

I love how the little children watch transfixed while the couple hugs each other. Don't you think that this will make a lasting impression that they will carry on with them when they get older?

It's sort of like how the welfare mothers influence their children to ask for free stuff from the government. As it is their birthright.

This is different, in that you want to reinforce the positive. You want to mitigate the negative, and provide direction, hope and rules for young impressionable people to follow.

0:00 / 0:15

Here's another couple. This time it is a mother and her child in a park. To us, from the West, this seems so odd and silly. But this happens in China, and no it's not all that rare. Role-play is increasingly becoming common place and fits the Chinese lifestyle.

It's an Asian thing. Just like the people in Japan like to dress up in traditional clothing. Just like they do in Thailand, and just like they do in Korea.

A traditional conservative life is viewed as something that is fundamentally important for familial success in life.

And... here's a grocery store. Check out the other people in the market.

0:00 / 0:17

You know, pay attention to the reactions of the workers in the grocery store. It's the same thing all over China. When you dress up in traditional Chinese clothes, everyone loves to watch you. China is a nation where there is no such thing as "cultural appropriation".

They love their culture and wish to reinforce it.

I dare say, can you just imagine trying to do this in the United States? You might end up with a 500 pound pink-hair water buffalo accusing you of "cultural misappropriation".

Just some American shoppers in Walmart. Once taxation was declared legal, a small army of tax enthusiasts devoted their lives to squeezing every drop of earnings from the American people. This activity severely impacted the life and lifestyles of Americans, and has thus manifested in the America that you see today. The best parade of progressive liberal family members can be easily viewed at any Walmart.

High School graduation. No progressive liberals here...

0:00 / 0:15

And of course, here is a mother with her son at an airport. In China. You will note how well behaved the baby is, and how demure the mother is. This is the picture of a traditional conservative family structure.

It is COMMON all over China.

In America, the progressive family is what is most common. You can see the influence of it everywhere. From Walmart to CNN. From the people elected to Congress to the condition of the roads and what happens to new capital projects... such as high-speed rail.

Notice how she doesn't buy fast food for them to snack on. Instead, she goes to a juice bar and gets some fresh healthy juice. A mother is responsible for the health and well-being of everyone in the household.

It is her duty.

Conclusion

Because the girls take so good care of you, make you feel happy, like a real man and the boss in the relationship and in turn expect you to support them financially that makes them bad girls? That's complete nonsense.

If someone doesn't like the idea of giving and taking then maybe he's better off dating an American, British, German, French, or Australian woman who works full time, brings in decent money but then expects you to do half of the household, half of the cooking, half of the dish washing, half of the children duties, half of everything. And doesn't take care and show interest in you nearly as much as a Khmer girl would do it on a daily basis.

-Cambodia Red Cat

Life is about living. Many times we have adjusted to the life that we lived simply without thinking. We never considered what it must have been like for our parents or our grandparents when they were our age. We don't give it any thought. We just accept what is, and assume that things have always been this way.

It need not be this way.

Look at the world around you. Appreciate it more. Appreciate your family more, and your friends more. Understand that the life that you are living now does not have to be the life that you must have. You can change it. You can make the life into an ideal that you want.

You just need to know a little bit about your family history and why things are the way that they are. With that knowledge comes power, and ultimately...

Change.

A Final Word

The traditional conservative family is prevalent all over the world because it works. It works successfully, and enables a family to thrive together through all the changes that it might encounter.

Non-traditional family structures have been tried all over the world. They have been tried, and documented, as far back as the middle ages, and they have always failed. They eventually die out.

The family members all eventually set up their own families and follow the traditional conservative model.

The Reason for this is simple.

For a progressive liberal family structure to persist through social upheavals and change, it requires outside assistance. The family unit is not cohesive. It is “every man for himself”. This reliance on outside assistance is fatal. Most especially when all the surrounding families are also progressive liberal in composition.

The over riding purpose behind a strong family unit is longevity. Progressive liberal families have a track record that lasts in years, few last longer than a decade. While traditional conservative families have exceedingly long periods of longevity. Often lasting centuries.

It's all about this...

What it was like being a kid in the early 1970's

This is my narrative of what it was like growing up a young teenager in 1971. This took place in the hills of Pennsylvania outside of Pittsburgh. I was 13 years old. I went to school, rode my bicycle around everywhere. I fished with my father, and watched television a lot.

The Fiasco of the Reengineering of the Common Tomato

This is the sad, sad story about how the wonderful and tasty tomato was reengineered to be “better”. It was made better to ship. Better to sell. Better to store. However, there was one thing missing. No one paid any attention to taste, which is why it tastes like a cardboard shipping box today.

A Movie Tribute to the 1980's When Ronald Reagan Ran America.

Here we argue that movies reflect society when they were made. Today we see popular movies being remade as all female versions due to the progressive realities today. Likewise, the movies of the 1980s reflected the time when they were made as well.

Mad Scientist Explorations

Here we discuss what it was like growing up as a boy in the 1960's and the 1970's and the people, things, and adventures that inspired us. As such, we explore how the independence of growing up enabled us to cope through life when we got older.

The Gorilla Cage in the Basement

When I was a small boy, I used to play in the abandoned buildings nearby. Here is a story about one of the objects that lay hidden inside one of those buildings and the possible mysteries that it held. As a child we thought it was a gorilla cage, now as an adult, I am not so sure...

The Importance of a Family Meal Together

There is nothing more important and satisfying than spending time together with friends and family and eating a meal together. It is a time of friendship, familial bonding and relaxation. Here we discuss what I have learned from my childhood and how I apply it today in my life.

The Pleasures of Fresh Baked Bread with Butter

One of the things that I have come to miss, since I moved to China, is fresh hard crusty rolls with full salted butter. The Chinese are not really fans of crusty bread. They like sweets and sponge cakes. Here I describe something that is close to me; not appreciating what you have right in front of you.

What Work was Like in the 1960's and 1970's.

When people go to work today, they find that there are all kinds of rules and regulations. It is for diversity, safety, inclusion, and improvement in a new progressive world. Well, here is what work was like before it became a sterile progressive testing ground for the New World Order.

Learning during my 1970s High School years

Here is a pretty long post on what it was like to go to elementary school in the 1960's, and then attend high school in the 1970's. I graduated in 1977, and that my friend is exactly the target date for the famous movie "Dazed and Confused". Here is the real deal what it was like.

Some True Stories of Cat Heaven

Being in MAJestic taught me many things. One of which was an intimate understanding of Heaven and other "spiritual" things relative to quanta entanglements. Here I discuss what it is like to have a beloved animal (cat) dies and what actually happens to them and why.

Life Lessons from Working within the Corporate Dream – 1

After I was trained by MAJestic, I was left to fend for myself in Corporate America. It was a hellish existence. As such, I learned many lessons concerning behavior and the ultimate impact that it holds on our families, our friends, our loved ones, and our very lives. Here are my commentaries.

Life Lessons from Working within the Corporate Dream – 2

This is part two of the two part section. There is quite a lot of information to impart. Stories are told, and experiences relayed. Honestly working in corporate America in the 1980's, through the new century really sucked. It was harsh on everyone except the owners of the companies.

How to Build Up Your Life from Nothing.

This is for all those young men who are just leaving school and trying hard to build up their life. You can do it. Here are my thoughts and advice for a young man who is encountering that most difficult of challenges; carving your life out in the wilds of the world.

Allow your Children to Play and Grow (Part 1)

I am horrified, just horrified, that parents do not allow their children to play, roam and explore on their own. It has created a society of pampered fearful children. Here I discuss this in terms of what I know. This is very non-PC and might offend the more liberal readers out there.

Allow your Children to Play and Grow (Part 2)

This is the second part of my rant about permitting children to play, explore and have fun. Everyone, the odds that some stranger will abduct your child is very small. Most people who do this are family friends and neighbors. Stop being so fearful. It harms the development of your child.

Ode to Diabolical Cretin John McCain

Well, that evil son-of-a-bitch is finally dead. If his grave wasn't so far away, I go there and dance on top of it. This guy has spent his life backstabbing people, hurting people, concocting wars, and doing everything in his power to disrupt the lives of people. Good fucking riddance.

The Song "Baby Got Back" Translated into Latin

Every Man Should Have a Roll-Top Desk

It's true, and I discuss why. A roll-top desk is made for the person who accumulates the clutter of the road as they forge their way through life. The desk becomes a symbol and a place for a man's privacy. It is a place where he has control over his life, and a place to store his treasures.

Why Women Need their own Personal Makeup Vanity Space

I am a strong believer that everyone needs privacy and a personal space to call their own. In this post I discuss the need for a woman to have a vanity and why it is important for a woman to spend time using it. Everyone, regardless of their situation, needs a place that is all theirs and theirs alone.

What the Progressive Liberals have in store for Conservatives

The progressive socialists, who now go under the name of "Liberals", have plans on the consolidation of their power and control. This is what their ultimate plans are. It does not bode well for traditional American values, Rights, the Constitution, or history. It's going to be a dangerous time.

The Warning Signs that Government Collapse is Imminent

All nations go through cycles. They do so, and when they mature they evolve into other governmental forms. The United States is long overdue for a change; a reset. Now, while this will occur, it is unknown how severe it would be. Here are my thoughts on this issue and some warnings.

Democrat Busybodies and the Destruction of Freedom

Wouldn't life be wonderful if you could just be left alone and live your life in peace? I think so. The founders of the United States thought so, however there is an army of busybodies who disagree. They have this vision of utopia where everyone listens to their commands.

Adventures of a 70's Kid in an Army And Navy Store

Here we look at what adventures an Army and Navy store could hold for the inquisitive child. We talk about the history and the inherent adventures that lay hidden in dusty boxes, and dark corners. We narrate the exploration through the eyes of nostalgia. It's a pleasant excursion.

Comparison between American and Chinese Playgrounds

The differences between American and Chinese playgrounds couldn't be more telling. It is a tale of how things are handled differently and the roles that parents take. In China the role of the parent is to equip the child for life. While in America it is to protect the child from life.

Excuses We Use That Keep Us Enslaved

Here we look at what an American actually is. For the argument made here is that citizenship in the United States is not what qualifies a person to be an "American". Rather it is the way a person thinks, the way they act, and their general philosophy in life. For not everyone is an American.

More Posts about Life

I have broken apart some other posts. They can best be classified about ones actions as they contribute to happiness and life. They are a little different, in subtle ways.

On Being an Older Gent

Here are my thoughts on growing old as a man. The truth is that the life that I expected to have as I was growing up never materialized. Instead, something else manifested. My life today is nothing compared to what I thought it would be. For my illusions were created by American media.

Things that I wish that I knew when I was 25 years old

Here is the advice that I would give myself when I turned 25 years of age. It is the advice I would give my younger self after attending the school of "hard knocks" for around four decades or so. If only I knew then, what I know now. Would my life be any different? Let's look at this curiosity.

Be Who You Are

All our lives we are told who to be, what to do, what career to take. Our religion, our work, our schools, our government, and our loved ones all tell us what we need to do. Here, I tell you the opposite. Stop allowing others to tell you what to do. You know what you need inside of you.

Calexit and the American Civil War

This is a pretty detailed look at the causes of the American civil war, and why it wasn't about slavery. We look at the rewriting of history by the internet, and the efforts that President Obama took to keep California intact so that the Democrats could maintain political power and control.

Why an American man should leave America and Travel

All people should get up off their duff and go forth and Travel. However, this is most especially true for American men. The United States has become a crucible of PC progressive realities that attack and depreciate American men. Go out, young man, see the world as it really is!

The Amazing Bremelanotide PT-141

Forget Viagra, and all those other ED medications. This is the real deal. This little baby causes humans to go into heat. It interacts with the brain and sets up feelings of intense arousal on both men and women. It turns people into 16 year olds. As such it is banned in the USA by the FDA.

Bronco Billy and the 25th Law of Power

Bronco Billy is a fictional movie starring Clint Eastwood. The movie depicts the life of a man who decides to change his life and go ahead and do what he has always dreamed of doing. He goes out and becomes his dream. There are lessons here for all of us, we only need listen.

The r/K Selection Theory applied to American Politics

The r/K theory is a pretty well-known theory on animal behavior. It simply states that animals behave as they need to based on the scarcity of resources. Here, we argue that it can be applied to why humans follow different political philosophies. Especially in American politics.

How they get away with it

Ten years ago, Bankers committed fraud in Wall Street that just about devastated the nation. Earlier, we had the S&L fiasco, the nightmare with penny stocks, and now the grand wholesale treason with the selling of Top Secrets to a foreign nation. This is how they get away with it.

The Line in the Sand – Now What?

It's the same story. Just vote for us, and we will correct everything. Yet, nothing ever happens. You know, boys and girls, this old "song and dance" can only be maintained for so long. Eventually it will fractures, and people will no longer rely on elections to institute change...

The importance of having a second passport.

So President Trump is building a wall to protect Americans. Hum. Where have I heard that before? Oh yes, in Germany right when they were making the wall that separated Berlin. Walls serve two purposes; they keep people out, but they also keep people in. Be careful what you wish for.

What is Snopes.com and can it be Trusted?

Snopes is a “fact check” website that is fully funded by the oligarchy. It is used to “shout down” any narratives that does not support the rich and powerful, and politically connected globally. Here we discuss the organization, who they are and what they represent.

Today America Taxes it's Expats without Representation.

This is a sad state of affairs. Americans who reside outside of the United States now have to pay American taxes, even though they have no representation in Congress. As I recall this was one of the reasons for the American cry for independence in 1776.

Nations that an American Man could Travel and Relocate to – Part 1

Here, I suggest places where an American man could go if he wanted to start all over again. You know, this happens. Often a man will go through a nasty divorce, or get raked over the coals by a business associate or the United States government. When it happens, it's time to start new.

Alternative Search Engines instead of Google

Google does two things that I do not like. Firstly, they vacuum up everything you do and send the information straight to the American deep state; the NSA and DHS. Secondly, they censor your results for you according to what they think you should see. Here we look at alternatives.

The Consequences of the #MeToo Movement

While the #MeToo movement burst forth onto American culture with good intentions, it was soon coopted by those with selfish and sinister intent. The aggressive nature of the accusations, and the consequences of being accused became dangerous. Here we look at the corporate aspect.

What High School Taught me About Democracy

America was formed as a Republic. Yet, for many decades we were brought up in the notion that the United States is the greatest "Democracy" in the history of the world. I have my own opinions about that. Democracy is "mob rule". Let's talk about it from what I learned in my High School.

The New Global Order and How to Survive It

The world is polarized. There are two distinctly different ideologies. One is the traditional conservative ideology. The other is the progressive globalist oligarchy that controls just about everything in the West. The future of the world hangs in the resolution of these two ideologies. We discuss that here.
