Normally, I don't post about politics. Not that much, actually. But this is a special event. But, you know, NEOCON Senator John McCain is dead.

Well, he is finally dead. I never thought that it would finally come to pass. I mean, we have walking anachronisms still staggering about, swilling on chardonnay and having their hands in all kinds of crimes. From outright treason to censorship activities, and arming radical fanatic progressives.

"The America of John McCain ":

A corporate plutocracy of backroom dirty-dealings and traitorous actions, where a handful of shitbag people call all the shots and promote unnecessary wars because they benefit the corporate overlords.

THAT is "McShithead's America", and ANYONE related to McShithead can go fuck themselves, as far as I'm concerned.

I caught some footage of today's funeral event for the traitor...it seemed like EVERY piece of political shit came out to the party...and all I could think was, "Where's a terrorist attack when you need one?"

Post on John McCain funeral.

I'm still waiting on George Soros, Nancy Pulaski, and the other ilk to move on to the next stage of their lives, but it just never seems to happen. They just seem to live on, and on, and on... It gets tiring...

John McCain is an American Senator (Republican) for the state of Arizona. Of course, if the reader goes to Wikipedia they will find some information regarding this "great" Senator. There might be some good and some bad mixed together.

Now we have "important" past Presidents that are going to give glowing praise on just how wonderful this person was.

In political circles, he is known as a "RINO" (a Republican In Name Only) who professes to be conservative, but is devoted to a non-conservative (progressive and liberal) agenda. His political leanings are not what was at stake here, nor was that put him on this list. Rather it was his preoccupation with war.

He is what is known as a "NEOCON", which has come to be associated with a love of war, regardless of the cost and the effect that it would have on the American people.

Geopolitics Alert has compiled a partial list of all the nations that John McCain wanted to attack and engage war with. It's a pretty lengthy list.

Afghanistan and Iraq

Obviously, every US Senator (besides California's Barbara Lee) voted to give President George W. Bush the power to invade Afghanistan following the events of September 11th. However, McCain wasn't happy with just moving to invade Afghanistan. No, he had other targets on his mind as early as the day after the towers fell.

Despite McCain's claim in 2014 that "the Iraq war probably wouldn't have happened" if he had won the 2000 Republican primary and the general election, this assertion seems ridiculous. On September 12th, 2001, McCain appeared on MSNBC presenting an extensive list of countries he felt were providing a "safe harbor" to groups like al Qaeda. This list, of course, included Iraq and several other nations that appear later on this list.

Syria

Another country on that 2001 list (of course) was Syria. Now, the Bush regime may have never gotten a chance to continue toppling Mideast countries (thanks to the failure in Iraq and the exposure of that war being sold on lies). But McCain seemingly never lost sight of his hatred for Bashar Al-Assad.

Shortly after the Arab Spring "broke out" in Syria, McCain – and his constant partner in war crimes Sen. Lindsey Graham – quickly found communication channels with the "Syrian opposition." Just a few short months after the US endorsed protests in Syria (even having their ambassador attend), McCain and Graham began calling for arms to start flowing to the Free Syrian Army and other "rebel" groups.

Libya

McCain's plans for Syria never quite worked the way he wanted, but he probably should've known they would never yield a positive result. If McCain didn't want to look at Iraq to prove that point, he had another more recent example he could've used: the NATO intervention in Libya.

It was less than a year before McCain wanted to arm Syrian takfiris that he had supported with the bombing and no-fly zones in Libya. McCain even wanted tougher actions against the country. Which has now become an anarchic Wild West that's home to all sorts of horrors from the Islamic State to a new slave trade.

West and Central Africa

McCain is also a champion of the "war on terror" in other parts of Africa. While McCain hasn't directly supported terrorists in some countries in Africa, he still has called for more US intervention across the continent.

This list includes countries dealing with Islamic insurgencies, such as Mali. McCain has also called for plans like "deploying Special Forces" to rescue girls kidnapped by Boko Haram in Nigeria and intervention in Sudan, where McCain and his wife have invested money for some time.

Iran

Another country on the list of hated nations initially put forth by Bush undersecretary of defense Paul Wolfowitz, and also another longtime target of McCain is, of course, Iran.

Although McCain has always said "he prays" there will never be a war with Iran, the man incessantly calls for it and even jokes about bombing the country when he feels the mood is right. The truth of the matter is, McCain's positions towards Iran are so hostile that even flagship neoconservative institutions like the Cato Institute think he is too hawkish.

Bosnia and Kosovo

But McCain isn't satisfied with just backing Salafi jihadists in the traditional Middle East and North African theaters. He's also backed violent radicals across the fringes of Europe. This trend actually started in the mid-1990's when McCain was a vocal supporter of then-president Bill Clinton's war in Bosnia.

Many Muslims traveling to Bosnia joining the mujahideen there have since joined groups like IS in recent years. And IS flags can occasionally be seen in the Sunni areas of Bosnia now. McCain was still backing potential Takfiri movements, recently accusing Russia of interfering in local affairs, and calling for more US intervention in the country.

McCain made similar decisions when he advocated US intervention in Kosovo in the late 90's. In the Kosovo conflict, McCain backed the Kosovo Liberation Army: a genocidal jihadist organization with ties to Al Qaeda under Osama Bin Laden.

Ukraine

Don't be fooled into thinking that McCain only supports jihadists in Eastern Europe! He also backs the overt Nazis acting as death squads for Kiev in the ongoing Ukrainian conflict.

This, of course, started in 2014, but McCain has continued to pledge support for Kiev's crimes in the Donbass region to this day. This is all par for the course in McCain's larger theme of challenging Russia— the country he believes controls the separatists in eastern Ukraine.

Russia

The story of McCain's hatred of Russia spans back to the Cold War. We won't get into McCain's fear of communism that's evolved into just general Russophobia. But we will say he didn't have many excuses to focus on making threats towards Moscow for a good 15-20 year stretch.

This changed in 2008, with the war in South Ossetia between Georgia and Russia. During this conflict, McCain was the loudest voice saying the US "should immediately call a meeting of the North Atlantic Council to assess Georgia's security and review measures NATO can take to contribute to stabilizing this very dangerous situation."

This same situation repeated in Ukraine in 2014 but McCain's worst comments came this year. As soon as the US Intelligence Community's accused Russia of interference in the 2016 US elections— and without any evidence— McCain was first to say the event was an "act of war."

North Korea

The Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DRPK/North Korea) was also an early target of McCain's making his September 12th wish list. More recently though, the restyled "Trump opponent" McCain was all-in on the new regime's saber rattling. Calling on Trump to strike the nuclear-armed country.

China

China is kind of in its own class with McCain, who's made strange, vague threats towards the country in the past. Such as "the Arab spring is coming to China," whatever that means. China may be a target on the periphery for McCain, but he does still encourage antagonizing the country to this day. Calling for things like more "freedom of navigation drills" and other naval exercises in the South China Sea.

So, in summation, next time someone asks why you don't care about John McCain's clock running out, show them this article. McCain has encouraged the spread of death worldwide. The day he leaves Congress will be a victory for the human race.

Judicial Watch Obtains IRS Documents Revealing McCain's Subcommittee Staff Director Urged IRS to Engage in "Financially Ruinous" Targeting : Traitors on the highest levels

Posted on June 29, 2018 | 1 comment

“(Washington, DC) – Judicial Watch today released newly obtained internal IRS documents, including material revealing that Sen. John McCain’s former staff director and chief counsel on the Senate Homeland Security Permanent Subcommittee, Henry Kerner, urged top IRS officials, including then-director of exempt organizations Lois Lerner, to “audit so many that it becomes financially ruinous.” Kerner was appointed by President Trump as Special Counsel for the United States Office of Special Counsel.

The explosive exchange was contained in notes taken by IRS employees at an April 30, 2013, meeting between Kerner, Lerner, and other high-ranking IRS officials. Just ten days following the meeting, former IRS director of exempt organizations Lois Lerner admitted that the IRS had a policy of improperly and deliberately delaying applications for tax-exempt status from conservative non-profit groups.

Lerner and other IRS officials met with select top staffers from the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee in a “marathon” meeting to discuss concerns raised by both Sen. Carl Levin (D-MI) and Sen. John McCain (R-AZ) that the IRS was not reining in political advocacy groups in response to the Supreme Court’s Citizens United decision. Senator McCain had been the chief sponsor of the McCain-Feingold Act and called the Citizens United decision, which overturned portions of the Act, one of the “worst decisions I have ever seen.”

Blog at WordPress.com.

Summary

The guy is dead.

I suppose that we should all now feel sorry that he is gone. Right? He was a “great” Senator. Um, I suppose so if you think killing people is a noble cause. He treated people like dust balls found under an old bed. He didn’t care about others. No. Not really.

There is NOTHING good about war. Nothing.

When Donald Trump said that he was going to put Americans first, it was John McCain that jumped up and shouted back "Not, on my watch!". He then went and did every single thing in his power to obstruct, impune and disparage the President. A President, mind you, that was part of his very own political party.

McCain was an obstructionist of the highest order.

He was also a liar. He would stomp about and make all kinds of promises to his conservative base, and turn around and not do a damn thing when he was back in Washington, D.C.. He was a real, bonified evil snake.

The reader might be aware that such a desire for war is a sickness of sorts. When I was a little boy, I enjoyed war movies and monster movies where Tokyo is destroyed by a huge reptile run amok. However, the desire for war, and glory, falls to the floor as one matures and realizes the importance of creating and improving one's life. It no longer lies in ruin and destruction.

Perhaps the huge brain tumor in the skull of John McCain might account (somewhat) for his predilection for inserting the United States in conflict around the globe. I do not know for sure. What I do know is that it is individuals like him that tend to destabilize the world, and through their actions, lower the standard of living for all Americans.

"If Johnny McC wants to contribute to Society in his dying days, he should erect a Headstone in the form a Urinal. I, for one desire to piss on this Bastards grave and would prefer an appropriate point of aim. Adios, you Clueless, Miserable, Warmongering Fuck." -Vatican cameo

In any event, thanks to him, by the time he died the USA was actively engaged in seven wars all over the globe. Not one of which had any direct impact on the lives of middle class Americans. He was also active in trying to get in war with both Russia and China. He didn't care which. He just wanted war!

John McCain legacy

Take Aways

- America has squandered it's wealth, and been involved in long drawn out wars in far away places.
- These wars never benefited any Americans.
- Leading the charge for war was RINO John McCain.
- John McCain acted like Hitler on steroids. He wanted to have a war with everyone.
- Now that he is dead, the world is a slightly safer place.

Allow your Children to Play and Grow (Part 1)

Allow your Children to Play and Grow (Part 2)

This is the second part of my rant about permitting children to play, explore and have fun. Everyone, the odds that some stranger will abduct your child is very small. Most people who do this are family friends and neighbors. Stop being so fearful. It harms the development of your child.

Ode to Diabolical Cretin John McCain

Every Man Should Have a Roll-Top Desk

It's true, and I discuss why. A roll-top desk is made for the person who accumulates the clutter of the road as they forge their way through life. The desk becomes a symbol and a place for a man's privacy. It is a place where he has control over his life, and a place to store his treasures.

Why an American man should leave America and Travel

How they get away with it
